CHINA GREEN TEAS			VeriLeaf True Teas Corp.
2001	Pi Lo Chun, Premium (Green Spiral Spring)	2.2 lbs	Special grade, top of the line. Hand-crafted to produce gentle spirals. Downy tips very evident. When the tea leaves are still warm after de-enzyming, small mounds are rolled by hand in three stages. The delicate, pliant leaves are thus transformed into the familiar spiral shape. Shanghai's favorite.
2002	Rainflower Needles	2.2 lbs	Deep green, short, pine needle-like leaves distinguish this little known tea. Rainflower Terrace in Nanjing (Jiangsu province) holds historical significance; the area is relatively high and is known for its colorful agate stones. Classic green with prominent sweet notes.
2011	Huang Shan (Yellow Mtn) Maofeng	2.2 lbs	Fat, golden green buds, memorably sweet, delicate flavor. Association with this scenic locale adds cachet.
2018	Anhui Pearls (Yong Xi Huo Qing)	2.2 lbs	A signature Anhui green; shaped like Gunpowder but far superior plucking rolled into classic pearl shape.
2020	Tai Ping Hou Kui	2.2 lbs	Very long budsets; each one is individually pressed by hand. Bright green leaves yield a delicate brew.
2021	Lu'an Melon Seed	2.2 lbs	One of China's 10 Famous Teas, our Lu'An is hand-rolled, not machine rolled. Some may find it puzzling that a fairly expensive tea like this is not made from buds; in fact, growers separate the buds from the 2nd and 3rd leaves by hand and then process those to make Lu'An (which is named for a county in Anhui province).
2028	Tea Trail Mountain	2.2 lbs	Introduced last spring, this tea is plucked just once a year. The leaves are downy soft in appearance; the silver-white hues of the dry tea provide a wonderful teaching opportunity to educate your customers about white teas and green teas. (This one is a green tea.) The cup is notably sweet.
2041	Snow Sprouting	2.2 lbs
2045	Superfine Golden Green	2.2 lbs	(Advance order)
2056	Green Silk Maofeng	2.2 lbs	Introduced last spring, this tea is plucked just once a year. The leaves are downy soft in appearance; the silver-white hues of the dry tea provide a wonderful teaching opportunity to educate your customers about white teas and green teas. The cup is notably sweet. Single buds, and bud with one leaf (a budset yields more flavor than just a single bud).
2064E	Snow Monkey	2.2 lbs	Thick white strands among darker green leaves; slightly twisted. Budsets show after brewing. Rich-tasting green but without harshness or bite.
2070	Emerald Pearls	2.2 lbs	Early single-plucking tea from southwestern China; leaves resemble balled Tie Guan Yin, unfurling to produce a truly satisfying cup. A great fit for gongfu pots, rare for a green tea.
2072	Rising Phoenix	2.2 lbs	For those who truly love China Greens, this is a nice one to try: interesting leaf shape, with prominent chestnutty aroma and flavor that do not dissipate quickly. Long sweet finish. Given their minimalist processing, Green teas tend to be subtle and restrained; this one is a standout.

CHINA GREEN (CONT'D)			VeriLeaf True Teas Corp.
2080	An Ji Bai Pian, Pre-Qingming	2.2 lbs	In this unusual varietal, the uniform green budsets turn a pale shade of ivory after steeping.
2081	Curled Dragon Silver Tip	2.2 lbs	One of my personal top five teas, this green expresses hand-crafting (fine rolling and curling), high quality plucking (inspect the infused leaves), and the chestnutty taste that marks the best of China greens.
2087	Bubbling Spring Rolled Green	2.2 lbs	Rolled into small pellets, this tea is very different from Gunpowder. When brewed, pellets are transformed to reveal tender yellow-green budsets. Fresh, sweet flavor; very drinkable.
2089	Dragonwell, Superfine	2.2 lbs	From the West Lake region. Delicate golden brew with a lingering, slightly sweet aftertaste.

2283E	Pinhead Gunpowder, Special, EU	5 lbs

JAPAN GREEN
2435	Kukicha, Fancy (Japan)	2 lbs	Hand-plucked, hand-cut with scissors before the stems are separated. From the Shizuoka region, notable for its fine teas. Yellow hues; not the brown "twig" type. Sweet, soft taste.
2451	Sencha, Supreme (Japan)	2 lbs	A "deeply steamed" Sencha; the process makes for some broken leaves but the tea is richer in flavor and the steaming seals in freshness.
2466	Japanese Genmaicha	2.2 lbs
2466M	Matcha-Infused Genmaicha (Japan)	2.2 lbs
2494	Matcha, Ceremonial Grade (Japan)	1.1 lbs

3161	China Jasmine (case only)	30 lbs
6136E	Jasmine Downy Pearls, Fancy, EU	2.2 lbs	Silvery tips carefully shaped into small round pearls. Compare quality by looking at the proportion of bud to stem in the wet leaves. Quality of plucking and scenting account for price difference; the
6137	Jasmine Downy Pearls, EU Compliant	4.4 lbs	standard grade is a great value. (Beware of jasmine pearls that have one or two long strands
6139	Jasmine Pearls	4.4 lbs
6142	Jasmine Golden Pearls Black	2.2 lbs
6336	Blooming Jasmine Ball Tea	2.2 lbs	A hand-crafted artisan tea composed of jasmine-scented green tea leaves tied together with a pink amaranth blossom in the center. Each piece is about the size of a Red Globe grape, and the tea leaves unfurl and "bloom" into a flower when steeped. A visual treat with solid jasmine flavor.

OOLONG TEASVeriLeaf True Teas Corp.

As tea crafters themselves are wont to say, Oolong is a “fussy” tea to make. Withered leaves are tossed and shaken to bruise the edges of the leaves and to begin oxidation. The extent of the shaking, of oxidation and drying is variable, making this a complex tea in the best sense. From the Light/Fragrant style that shows green-tinged rolled leaves to the more robust style that shows dark, thick leaves, Oolongs provide something for everyone. Pale golden cups offer floral notes; medium oxidized teas brew up an apricot-colored cup with layers of flavor; deep amber brews yield smooth, deeply aromatic cups.

TAIWAN OOLONG

4020	Fushoushan (Longevity Mountain)	2.2 lbs	Still hand made, from gardens found at the island's highest elevations.
4021	Li Shan (Pear Mountain)	2.2 lbs
4022	Da Yu Ling	2.2 lbs	Deeper flavor than other high mountain teas; layers evident after repeated sips.
4023	High Mountain Oolong	2.2 lbs
4024	Shanlinxi	2.2 lbs
4025	Alishan Oolong	2.2 lbs	Perhaps the most famous of Taiwan's high mountain teas; Alishan is a mountain preserve in Chiayi County.
4026	Honey Oolong	2.2 lbs	Many high mountain teas grow at high altitudes and come with matching prices; yet many are light in flavor. The fragrance from this tea is immediate and stellar, with a sweet honey finish that justifies the splurge, especially if one remembers that nothing was added to enhance the tea.
4028	Gwei Fei (Emperor's Choice)	2.2 lbs	Very difficult to choose between this and the Honey Oolong, and so both are on offer. The concentration and tightly focused aroma and taste are exceptional and beguiling, inviting sip after sip. For those who wish to venture beyond TiKuanYin, this is a worthy option that will prove captivating.

CHINA OOLONG

4361	Wuyi Rou Gui Rock Oolong	2.2 lbs
4362	Wuyi Rou Gui Rock Oolong	2.2 lbs	The term "Rou" means "meat," and for a peasant society where meat was an extravagance, this word signifies a lavish tea. "Gui" refers to cinnamon or bark, hinting at this tea's distinctive aroma (though not one of cinnamon). The fragrance eludes easy description; white peach comes to mind, as well as "fruity but not floral."
4371	Da Hong Pao Rock Oolong	2.2 lbs	One of the best known Oolongs from the Wuyi mountains in Fujian. Brews a deep gold-light amber cup. Wet leaves give a dramatic, high mountain aroma. Mild, smooth taste with an elegant, almost austere, fragrant finish.
4372	Da Hong Pao Wuyi Rock Oolong	2.2 lbs
4373	Da Hong Pao Rock Oolong	2.2 lbs
4383	Honeysuckle Oolong	2.2 lbs
4392	Shui Hsien Oolong	2.2 lbs
4396	Shui Hsien Oolong (case only)	26.4 lbs

Produced in the only authentic Tie Guan Yin region – Anxi, Fujian – Tie Guan Yin teas undergo a labor-intensive series of steps, primarily rolling and separating the leaves after carefully monitored oxidation. Two major categories: the 'light-floral' style that evokes plumeria, and the 'traditional' medium roast teas that have toasty grain in the aroma with a long finish.

4402	Gold Guan Yin	2.2 lbs	From a hybrid; exquisite floral notes in a golden cup.
4413	Jade Guan Yin, Special Grade	2.2 lbs	A lighter hand during the oxidation process produces a "greener" Oolong with less fire that yields floral notes inherent in the leaves. Recommend you try it cold: I get notes of peaches, slightly grilled. Two really good drinking teas.
4415	Tie Guan Yin, First Grade	2.2 lbs	This 1st grade Ti Kuan Yin offers a good balance of roasting and delicate flavor.
4418	Fragrant Fruit Mountain Oolong	2.2 lbs
4422	Tie Guan Yin, Med. Roast, High Gr.	2.2 lbs
4423	Tie Guan Yin, Med. Roast, Special	2.2 lbs	Yields a fruity cup; round, soft, and mellow with hints of the distinctive TGY strength. Often served
4427	Tie Guan Yin, Medium Roast	2.2 lbs	Traditional teahouse standard; good for multiple infusions.
4428	Tie Guan Yin, High Roast	2.2 lbs	High roast, good through many infusions.
4430	Tie Guan Yin, High Roast	2.2 lbs
4482	Hairy Crab Oolong, Light-Floral	2.2 lbs	The tea leaves are covered with a fine white down, hence the name "Hairy Crab". The fragrance of this tea has been compared with that of jasmine. The leaves are robust and show some green. Golden yellow brew. Sweet, smooth-tasting Oolong. Mild and soothing.
4533	Imperial Gold Oolong	2.2 lbs
4553	"Orchid" Oolong, Floral Style	2.2 lbs	Very good fragrance that follows through to the flavor. Golden colored brew, medium body.
4557	Scholar Mountain Oolong	2.2 lbs	A great find and good value for a fruity, aromatic oolong. Garden elevation: 1000 meters
4561	Osmanthus Oolong	2.2 lbs	Osmanthus flowers (in simple syrup) are used as a garnish in Chinese desserts. The same gentle fragrance enhances oolong tea; no flavoring is used.
4562	Magnolia Oolong	2.2 lbs	Naturally scented.
4581	Sechung Oolong, Special Grade	2.2 lbs	The dark leaves lead one to expect some fire, but the brew proves otherwise. The cup is a light
4583	Sechung Oolong	2.2 lbs	golden amber and gives a long lovely fragrance. Full of flavor in the mouth, this is a tea with some finesse and without a strongly fired taste.
4602	Song Imperial Court Single-Trunk Oolong	2.2 lbs
4607	"Plumeria" Single-Trunk (unscented)	2.2 lbs
4608	"White Peach" Single-Trunk	2.2 lbs	Superb peach notes from this tea from a tree (no flavoring). Full flavored even when cooled.
4610	"Honey Orchid" Single-Trunk	2.2 lbs
4611	Phoenix Single-Trunk Oolong	2.2 lbs	Dan Cong Oolongs have become better known recently, and rightly so. These largish leaves plucked from tall trees yield an unsurpassed fragrance that mingles flowers and dried fruit (especially longan). The finish is long, and the tea yields several infusions with concentrated nectar notes. This is well priced for such a distinctive tea; a real winner. Its very long finish makes it ideal for those who enjoy brewing their tea with gaiwan or gongfu pots. Use less tea and you'll have an aromatic, lighter cup; use a bit more tea and its powerful, concentrated flavor comes to the fore. Also good when cooled.
4862	Milk Oolong	4.4 lbs	Inspired by the Jin Xuan tea that yields the aroma of cream, this flavored Oolong offers the surprising but satisfying pairing of lightly oxidized tea with milky notes, an addition that rounds out the flavor.
4866	Ginseng Oolong	4.4 lbs	Ginseng powder and licorice coat oolong leaves; the licorice imparts a slightly sweet note to the tea.

PUER TEASVeriLeaf True Teas Corp.

Puer is made from Yunnan tea and stored to age after oxidation. The most popular cooked puer teas are oxidized and then aged. Puer is also compressed into cakes, bricks, "bowls" (tuo cha), and other shapes. Molding the leaves requires a brief injection of steam; this small step alters the character of the finished compressed tea, and puer connoisseurs prefer these over loose puer. "Uncooked" puer begins as unoxidized tea, and the leaves undergo slight, natural oxidation as they age. For compressed teas, break off small pieces to brew, or steam the entire cake/brick to loosen the leaves; spread the leaves out and allow them to dry completely, then store in a lidded

5021	Yunnan Large-Leaf Puer, Very Old	2.2 lbs	Very dark brew, yet smooth and showing the best of aged cooked puer.
5024	Yunnan Puer, Very Old	2.2 lbs	A smooth, richly flavored puer. A consistent bestseller; for the true puer devotee.

5360	Uncooked "Sticky Rice" Puer Mini Tuo Cha	2.2 lbs
5380	"Sticky Rice" Puer Mini Tuo Cha	2.2 lbs	Not made with actual rice, but the addition of an herb that resembles roasted rice, rounding out the puer taste and yielding an appealing aroma.
S302	Cooked Yunnan Puer Cake ~357g	7 pcs	About the size of a Frisbee, this compressed tea is prominently displayed in tea shops in southwestern China. Robust, hearty flavor.
S303	Cooked Puer Mini Cakes	2.2 lbs	Individually wrapped; 9 grams per cake, approximately 50 cakes per pound.
S304	Cooked Yunnan Puer Cake ~100g	10 pcs	From year 2019.
S306	Cooked Yunnan Puer Cake ~100g	10 pcs	From year 2018.
S307	Cooked Yunnan Puer Cake ~100g	10 pcs	From year 2020.
S580	Yunnan Puer Brick ~250g	10 pcs	Aged 2-3 years. When loose puer leaves are compressed into cakes or bricks, steam is added before molding. This step alters and improves the flavor of puer as the tea is allowed to age.
S582	Uncooked Yunnan Puer Brick ~100g	10 pcs	From year 2020.

YELLOW TEAS

After withering and de-enzyming, leaves are covered with a clean cloth. This brief "smothering" process forces out more fragrance from the tea and imparts a slight yellow hue to the leaves. The pan-firing process is of shorter duration than that for green teas.

5411	Huo Mountain Yellow Sprouting	2.2 lbs	Another of Anhui's big-name teas, this Yellow tea shows beautiful budsets. "Fresh" and "sweet" are the most distinctive features, with an unmistakable orchard fragrance. Huo Shan is not a single mountain in western Anhui but is the name of the district, where there are several mountains that rise to over 5000 ft. 75% of the county is deeply forested, and all villages are supplied by natural water sources.
5416	Snow Dragon Yellow Buds	2.2 lbs	Plump buds tell the story about the precise plucking and the quality of the raw material. With some knowledge of yellow tea processing, you're sure to find a layer of flavor reflecting that added step when leaves are covered. The taste is clean and sweet, and surprisingly satisfying given the predominance of buds. This is a single plucking tea.

WHITE TEAS

5511	Silver Needles	2.2 lbs	Comprised entirely of buds with silvery white down. Also known as Flowery White Pekoe or Yin Zhen. No question about the high quality of the tea material, yet I have wished for more flavor.
5511E	Silver Needles, EU Standard	2.2 lbs	However, this batch exhibits a floral note that I have rarely encountered in this tea, and it is truly a Pre-Qingming
5510	Fuding Silver Needles	2.2 lbs
5600	Super White Peony	2.2 lbs
5611E	Mudan White, Special Grade, EU	2.2 lbs
5621E	Mudan White, First Grade, EU	2.2 lbs
5840	Shoumei White	2.2 lbs	Some people prefer a Shoumei over a Mutan white because the slight degree of oxidation in Shoumei makes for a more flavorful cup, imparting a characteristic toasty or nutty flavor. This grade brews a robust cup with an orange liquor.

FLAVORED BLACK TEAS			VeriLeaf True Teas Corp.
